Tuesday is Primary Election Day.

The Pine Cone Cymbal is not here marking a ballot of the candidates running for nomination for the general election because we believe it would not be consistent with our non-partisan policy, since the primary election for state and national offices is an inter-party matter. After the various parties have weeded out their men and decided whom they want to run for the general election, the Pine Cone Cymbal will be prepared to look over the field. For the present, we feel that it is a family affair.

But party is not an element in the election to county office. Tuesday's vote will be the final decision of the citizens.

We have looked carefully over the field of candidates for the county offices and for four of the contested posts, we have made our choice

Alex Bordges—

The Pine Cone Cymbal endorses Sheriff Alex Bordges because of his intelligent and economical administration of office, because of his patriotism, because his fore-sight and organizing ability have made Monterey County one of the most secure in the state.

From the first he has bent his efforts to the prevention of crime rather than to the building up of an elaborate system for detection and apprehension, a policy that deprives him of a brilliant record of arrests and convictions, and the accompanying publicity, but results in the greater safety of the citizens and the economical administration of his office.

In the two years he has held office, these are some of the measures he has taken for the protection of the lives and property of the citizens of Monterey County:

He has extended the nightly patrol system until there are six two-way radio cars covering almost the entire unincorporated area of the county. In our own district this service extends from Marina through Carmel Valley. What this means in added security in war time when the danger from sabotage is rife none of us need be told.

In fact, a better war-time officer could not have been chosen though war was still two years off when his appointment was made. With wisdom and foresight he anticipated the war and organized and trained citizen groups to such good purpose that two hours after war was finally declared, nearly all highway bridges in the county were guarded.

Among the groups he organized for the greater safety of the county are the motorcycle squad of sixteen civilians who are special deputies on call for any emergency, who furnish their own

10 Ton Xmas Package For Fire Fighters

Carmel's Volunteer Fire Department will have a new fire engine for Christmas.

With an all-time record YES vote, the citizens passed the fire engine bond election Tuesday with 585 for, only 24 against and one spoiled ballot, a total of 610.

The City Council now has permission to spend $10,000 for a fire engine. Fire Chief Vincent Torres says the Mack company, makers of the Army and Navy fire engines, and of the present No. 1 Carmel pumper, can deliver within 90 days providing City Attorney William Hudson can convince the priorities board, and since Carmel is shoulder to shoulder with Fort Ord, Attorney Hudson has an excellent talking point.

The engine is already chosen. The Volunteer Firemen and their admirers — which takes in about the entire population of Carmel—have been huddled over pamphlets and catalogues of fire engines for months, and it is the best of its kind, fine enough even for the Christmas sock of the fire department of this town that thinks

Carmel Blows Out The Candles for Western Defense

Red flashlights and police whistles, about forty of them, enlivened dimmed-out Carmel last night when the regular police department assisted by the Special Police turned out to enforce the drive-with-your-parking - lights-only order of the western Defense Command.

Block Wardens had the job of checking on house and store lights while the State Highway Patrol and Sheriff's Deputies were in charge of the unincorporated area enforcement.

Though only specified areas of Pacific Grove and Monterey have been put in the restricted light class, all of Carmel falls under the dim-out order, and last night the town, with a little nudging on the part of the block wardens and the police, obediently went under wraps.

Cars were stopped and warned, houses visited. Offenders in most cases were those who had forgotten the dim-out dead-line was the 20th, or were not fully informed as to the regulations.

For those who are still uncertain of the requirements, Mrs. Cedric Rowntree, C. D. Executive Secretary, has provided the Pine Cone Cymbal with the following summary, and urges a careful reading of the few simple instructions since the penalty for violation, fully invoked is removal from the territory, $5,000 fine, and imprisonment for one year.

All windows from which there is any possibility of viewing the water should be shielded at night.

4 Carmel Grocers Warned by Duclus

Earl Duclus, County Sanitary Inspector for the Monterey Peninsula, paid a visit to Carmel Thursday morning while the town was still sleeping, noted that the vegetable truck drivers were unloading their produce on the sidewalks convenient to contamination from dogs.

Four local grocers were warned that in allowing the vegetables to remain on the sidewalk until they opened their stores for business in the morning they were violating the public nuisance act. Inspector Duclus has served 21 of these notices throughout the Peninsula. He will make another call next week to see if the abuse has been stopped.

While in Carmel, he also posted new signs at the Carmel River mouth warning that the water is contaminated and unsafe for swimming.

Lovelier than Ever Is Promise of Twilight Show

Under the new lighting restrictions, the Forest Theater stage should be more beautiful than ever for the streamlined performance of Twelfth Night tonight, tomorrow and Sunday. Director Heron has planned a setting of pink and green, with the players clothed in black and white—moving against pink walls and terraces, surrounded by light and dark greens in shrubbery and trees that reach up into the soft summer twilight. The one spot of color in all the players' garb will be the yellow stockings put on so hopefully by the ridiculous steward Malvolio in his love-making to the Countess Olivia.

The role of the Countess is taken by Brenda Doyle, her first role in Carmel, though she has played successfully elsewhere. Maxine Chevalier, from the Pasadena Playhouse, brings to her work a verve and charm and polish that

Grapes, Berries, Pears Put Pressure On Carmel Board

With the canning season reaching its height, the local sugar rationing board is expecting a rush of applications in the next few weeks and is prepared to handle them.

Mrs. Florence Michaels, Mrs. Leda Grainer, Mrs. Doris Haskell, Mrs. Lillian Becker and Miss Ruth Radcliff, are at the C. D. office on Sixth Street each Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. to take applications for canning sugar, rationing it according to the amount of fruit the applicant plans to put up.

The Carmel board was established several months ago to save the housewife the necessity of driving to Monterey for her canning sugar ration.

The members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department thank the citizens for their whole-hearted co-operation in making possible the purchase of a new fire engine.

Chief Vincent Torres.

13 Candidates State Platform At League Rally

Two hundred and fifty politically-minded Peninsularites, half of them from Carmel, met for lunch and to hear the candidates speak at the League of Women's Voters luncheon rally at Memory Garden at Monterey yesterday noon.

Thirteen candidates were on the program: James J. McBride, Geo. E. Outland and A. J. Dingeman for Congress, Fred Weybret and George Dewey Pollock for member of Assembly, and the candidates for contested county offices: Alex Bordges, Julien M. Moreau, for sheriff; Anthony Brazil and Raymond W. Shellooe for District Attorney; C. F. Joy and Emmet G. McMenamin for County Clerk, and Henry Freels and Frank Oyer for Constable.

At the close of the speaking, a half hour was given to questioning of the candidates by the audience.

Mr. Outland emphasized the need of total mobilization for war, of man power, leadership and resources, pointed out the inevitability of sacrifices and increased taxation on an equitable and just basis; when the war is over, in need of a plan for political and economic readjustment: "This is not the time for politics as usual but national unity": after the war continued progress in domestic reform for the security and happiness of the people.

Mr. Dingeman outlined his twenty-three years in a business career and his public activities. He made no claim to being an expert in international affairs, considering this to be not a case for international affairs but "a case for winning this war." This is the time when we need business men in Washington, he said, adding that many business men have been called to Washington "because they can do a job." He cited his own experience recently in Washington in representing a business concern of his community in making adjustments toward war conditions.

Mr. McBride outlined his business career in Ventura for 25 years, his experience in assembly from 1932, and in the State Senate from 1936 to the present. His platform is "all out war effort; eliminate non - essential government spending; protection of labor; protection of agriculture and small business; study of economic problems with a view to preserving peace and making a place for the millions of young men returning after the war." He said he did not believe in working people paying tribute to any group such as labor unions, but he believed in the work of the union if the "racketeering" in the unions were eliminated—as well as "rackets" in business.

Mr. Weybret spoke of his two terms in the assembly emphasizing the legislative problems in the "economy group" of which he is a member—which was non-partisan. This group saved $200,000,000 to the taxpayers, and $30,000,000 additional now in the treasury. They intend to maintain the interest in economy. He emphasized the importance of getting out the full vote in the primary.

Mr. Pollock believed the legisla-

Republican Ladies Reorganize at Carmel Meeting

"For women, the coming election is the most important since the suffrage election twenty-two years ago," Mrs. Jessie L. Williamson of Berkeley, state president of the Republican Women's Clubs, told the newly reorganized Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's Club, meeting in Carmel, Monday.

"It is estimated that between 65 and 70 per cent of the votes will be cast by women this year."

Mrs. Williamson urged Republicans to make a special point of voting as a means of insuring continuance of the two party system.

Mrs. Edward L. Taylor presided at the meeting which began with election of new officers.

Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston of Carmel, president of Carmel Woman's Club, was chosen president; Mrs. Joseph Fiske Catherwood of Monterey, corresponding and recording secretary; Miss Rosa Lee Kimball of Monterey, treasurer; Mrs. Edward L. Taylor, director from Carmel; Mrs. Harriet Weill, director from Monterey; and Mrs. Dela Rosa, director from Pacific Grove.

Eighteen attended the meeting which was held at Mrs. Cranston's home on top of Carmel Hill.

In accepting her new position, Mrs. Cranston urged the club to take an active part in the present campaign. From Prof. Albert Guerard of Stanford University she quoted:

"The curse of the world today is the timidity of the wise. As long as reason remains inert, it must bow before dynamic unreason."

The Republican women, noting the small registration for the primaries, have as their immediate objective a drive to remind people

We Want No Paper But Metal We Do— Says Gilbert

"No newspapers or magazines are needed now," says J. P. Gilbert, Carmel salvage chairman, "but we want more rubber and scrap metal."

The scrap metal bin by the post office was emptied for the third time this week; the tin can bin, for the second time; while only half a bin of old rubber has been collected.

The salvage committee is storing the material, waiting until there is a larger amount so that a better price may be obtained.

THE DOGS DO BARK

The "Canine Canary" is what GEORGE GERSHWIN Allen's friends call her, and with good reason, for when this gifted chanteuse gives forth with one of her namesake's hit tunes, it is really a delight to hear.

GEORGIE'S master and mistress, Sergeant and Mrs. Kenneth Allen of Cleveland, Ohio, named GEORGIE after their favorite composer, even though she was a girl, and GEORGIE, inspired by her name and assisted by her "torchy" voice, became a singer "par excellence," and was a very popular member of the Cleveland canine musical set.

Since GEORGIE has been out here in California, she has added several Spanish and Cowboy songs to her repertoire. At the moment she is working on her own interpretation of a lonesome coyote serenading the moon. It is quite effective.

That wee bonny lad seen "roamin' in the gloamin' with his lassie by his side" is that bra' Scotsman, HAMISH Keppie and his West Highland lassie is young HEATHER BELLE Keppie. The striking pair are visiting here with their mistress, Miss Elizabeth Keppie of Pasadena.

Where ever they go about the Village, wearing their plaid harnesses, they attract a great deal of attention and admiration. HAMISH'S attitude toward HEATHER BELLE is one of gallantry and protectiveness. When their mistress leaves the pair to wait for her outside of a shop, HAMISH politely but firmly refuses to let strangers come near wee HEATHER. He insists that they admire her from a respectable distance. HAMISH is a Gentleman-of-the-Old-School who believes that young ladies shouldn't speak to strangers. HEATHER BELLE has ideas of her own on this subject, however, and is forever embarrassing her conservative companion by "yoo hooing" at some attractive young fellow she doesn't know at all, but certainly would like to.

Cupid turns up in the most unexpected places! JULIO Frellson ran into Cupid at the Dog Catcher's house.

JULIO is very fond of Foy Glover, the Dog Catcher, because Mr. Glover has been very nice to him, so the other day JULIO decided to pay him a friendly call. JULIO trotted up to the house, scratched at the door, and was cordially received by his friend.

"Come in, JULIO," said Mr. Glover, "there's a young lady here I'd like to have you meet."

As JULIO went in, he didn't see Cupid standing inconspicuously in the corner of the room — but Cupid saw JULIO take one look at the Young Lady, blush, and stammer, "P-p-p-pleasedtametcha" — and the little rascal let fly an arrow that went staight to JULIO'S already palpitating heart. The Young Lady gave JULIO a long, slow, sidewise glance through her long, silky lashes, and saw the arrow strike its mark.

"I'm pleased to meet you, too," she admitted demurely.

Cupid grinned impishly as he watched JULIO escort the Young Lady home to meet his owner, Elsbeth Frellson, "Just waint until he finds out she can't cook!"

Remember the story about the Great Dane who thought he was a Dachshund because he was raised with them? Well, POKIE Sheets, a Pekinese, thinks he is a cat because he was raised with THEM. He runs away from dogs because the cats do. He curls up on a cushion by the fire because he sees the cats do it. He even laps milks out of a saucer.

The cats evidently think he is cat, too, because they play with him and treat him just like a brother. Even strange cats make friends with POKIE. The only thing that confuses him is that he can't meow. He has tried, but the only noise he can make is something that sounds to POKIE suspiciously like "Bow, wow, wow"—and not at all like the noise the cats make. POKIE has tried to talk it over with his friend, Mingdon Sheets, but she just keeps telling him he's a Dog.

BUG BULLETIN

By PLANTSMITH

This message can't be directed to just plain "Oak Tree Owners" for now there are two distinct groups. Those who sprayed early and those who haven't as yet looked at their trees.

To the first group I declare full responsibility for wormless trees and cheerfully invite a call if there is any doubt whatever.

To the second group—those with not - sprayed - by - Plant - smith trees—I suggest that you be on the lookout for browning leaves, denuded twigs and for the telltale greenish-colored excreta pellets on the ground, patio floor or garden furniture. If you find pellets there can be no question as to the presence of worms. They're there!

Very little time remains if you wish to preserve foilage "as is." It will soon be a case of "green leaves today — worm manure tomorrow." Of course there is a priority on fertilizers and you could recover the sweepings from under the trees but there's a catch to that, too: you have to accept the company of the worms as well as their product.

In case you decide you'd rather have the green leaves please call 617. ADV.

Outland Speaks At San Carlos Dinner Meeting

"While winning the war comes before all other issues, we need also to protect our domestic gains," declared George Outland, candidate for Congress from this district, at a Democratic banquet Tuesday night at Hotel San Carlos.

"I believe that in the last 10 years we have made great social gains. I have always felt that the Wagner Act deserved to be called the Magna Charta of organized labor. At the same time there are certain abuses and faults within labor, even in the leadership. I would fight against these abuses and I believe the far-sigted labor leaders would also."

Art Directors Elect Oliver, Begin Action With Poster Drive

Myron Oliver was elected president of the Carmel Art Association Wednesday at the first fully attended meeting of the directors in years.

Oliver has served as acting president of the group for the past six months.

William Ritschel was chosen first vice president; John O'Shea, second vice president; Armin Hansen, third vice president; Mrs. William O'Donnell, secretary; and E. H. Price, treasurer.

Miniature Show Next at Sketch Box Gallery

The Sketch Box in the Seven Arts Court, on Lincoln and Ocean, fast becoming a recognized institution in the art life of Carmel is again opening its hospitable doors. The dates of the exhibit—now to Sept. 3. Hours 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Here the works of Florence Lockwood, E. M. Heath, Royal Stowell, Lucille Burtis and others including Ellen Brown's dog pictures have successively been shown. The new exhibit differs from the others for it is not a one man show. The expression that good things come in small packages is apropos. This exhibit contains miniatures and figurines and as a consequence there is space for a combination of artists.

One miniature painter is Hazel Coolidge whose work is unique in that her miniatures are character studies, "portraits in little" rather than the Dresden china type. The medium is watercolor on ivory. Another miniature artist is Major Totten who is showing some charming miniatures of old family portraits. The figurines are the work of Laura Silverman. Her work and that of the other artists whose names follow, will be spoken of in another review. They include Mrs. Major Totten, Capt. Harris, Col. Chas. Daly, Harvey Higley, son of Gen. Higley, Royden Martin, Mr. De Rome, Mrs. Jean Caldwell, Tommie Gyan, a young Chinese artist, and Mrs. Francis Clark, wife of the commanding officer of the Presidio, who has modeled an interesting figure of a Chinese dancer.

Tomorrow, Saturday, in the afternoon, tea will be served. The friends of the artists are invited and the invitation is also extended to the public.

The Sketch Box is under the capable management of Ellen Habenicht.

Pine Cone-Cymbal
Carmel, California

For many years past there has always been anchored in Stillwater Cove a fairly fast power boat of some kind, during the summer months. These boats were on call in case of emergency or accident and have on several occasions effected important rescues from drowning.

This summer, for the first time since I moved here some ten years ago, there is no such boat available within two hours or more run of Carmel Bay.

I believe it has been suggested in your paper that some move should be made to keep a proper type of rescue boat in Stillwater Cove. Just who or what organization should purchase and maintain such a boat is the question. It would seem, however, that some civic body could sponsor this move.

Capt. Leonard Johnson, who is now a member of the Carmel Special Police and who is stationed at Stillwater Cove, could and I am sure would, make an ideal operator and caretaker for such a boat. Capt. Johnson is an expert on first aid and already has many rescues from the waters of Carmel Bay, to his credit.

Sincerely yours,
Wm. H. Burnham, Jr.

This is the second letter the Pine Cone Cymbal has received on this subject, the first written by Colden Whitman and printed several weeks ago. I have talked with members of the Carmel Police Department, and unofficially they feel that to have such a boat available at Stillwater Cove would be an advantage to Carmel, but members of the City Council, also speaking unofficially, felt that though Carmel might get some benefit from the boat, it would not be enough to justify an appropriation of funds by the city. In any case, the council members said they did not know where the money could be found as there is no allowance in the budget for such expenditures, and it is a problem at present to find sufficient money for Civilian Defense.

I should think money might be raised by subscription from among those who are interested in sailing and fishing, since the primary purpose of the boat would be the protection of small craft off Stillwater Cove. As the boat would be available to investigate unexplained lights off shore, it might be considered part of the Civilian Defense effort, and the County might be persuaded to contribute.

Wm. H. Burnham, Jr., Colden Whitman and Captain Johnson would make an excellent Ways and Means Committee ,but whether or not they are willing to function in that capacity, I am sure they would be glad to meet with others who might be interested in the project, and the Pine Cone Cymbal will welcome and print any suggestions that arrive in the mail.

The people of Carmel will be interested to learn that I have fairly basic information that our Chief of Police Roy Fraties is making good at the F B I Police Academy in Washington.

Our people should know that the whole hearted cooperation of all the members of our paid police force and our war time voluntary special police made it possible for the City Council to accept Director Hoover's invitation for our Police Chief to attend the Police Academy.

Sincerely yours,
Bernard Rowntree
Commissioner of Police.

To The Editor of the Pine Cone Cymbal:

The morale of the enlisted men who visit Carmel U. S. O. has been given a big boost. When the Painters Union No. 272 of the Building and Construction Trade Council heard that the Carmel U.S.O. should be freshened up a bit with paint, they offered to furnish the labor free, and they did.

The other night Jack Woodruff, Norman Winslow, Jim Burke, Graham Fleig, Bob Deacon, Ray Lund, Al Brewer and William Mayer, all good painters, arrived, happy to do their part for these service men who are defending our country.

They worked far into the night to apply the first coat of paint. If the folks in Carmel wish to help in getting the paint that will be needed, or some of the other things necessary in this redecorating scheme, they can get in touch with Mrs. Ritter Holman, the Highlands, Mrs. Charles C. Shepard, Jr., Pebble Beach, Mrs. Francis Elkins, Monterey, Mrs. Vera Peck Millis or Jim Cooke, Carmel.

The U.S.O. is going to need to have some chairs re-uphcistered, some mirrors in the Junior Hostess powder room, some new curtains, etc.

Needed also is someone who can build a small cabinet, shelves, and mend old furniture.

Mrs. Frances Elkins, interior decorator, is contributing her services free, and the junior hostesses have helped by sandpapering the woodwork and preparing it for the painters, while the service men have helped with sizing the walls.

The Painters Union and these other workers have set a wonderful example for us all to shoot at. Your help will be appreciated. This is a community enterprise in which all can take an active part.

equipment and devolve no expense on the county.

A rifle squad of 125 deputies who also furnish their own equipment as do the mounted posse of 60. A pre-war group, the aero squadron of twenty pilots with their planes, now grounded through war department orders, are available to the army for local use if needed.

His outstanding act in the interest of security both from criminal activity and in case of war emergency is the installation of a radio station in the sheriff's office with a direct line to the Salinas police department, the police departments of the peninsula cities, the rural fire departments and the California highway patrol cars, which serves not only as a swift measure in the apprehension of criminals but expedites orders from the fourth interceptor command regarding blackouts and civilian defense activities.

He has been fore-sighted and the entire county profits from that fore-sight. He has worked intelligently and economically for our safety and defense. He should be returned to office so he can continue with the measures he has so effectively put into motion.

Joy—

The County Clerk's office with its mass of detail is a complicated department to run. C. F. Joy has kept it functioning smoothly for a good many years. His work has been satisfactory in every respect.

The Pine Cone Cymbal sees no reason for putting a new man on a job that is already being handled efficiently and economically. We feel that Joy should be returned to office.

Shellooe

Raymond Shellooe not only has the experience and ability to handle the mutiple duties of the district attorney's office—he was deputy district attorney from 1933 to 1935 when he prosecuted many of the criminal cases of the period—but he has the experience, ability and WILL to take intelligent and sympathetic action in clearing up the juvenile delinquency problem in this county—a problem that is getting out of hand.

He will do this because that is where his interest lies, because he has been doing as much as he can in this direction in his capacity as a private citizen supporting the P.T.A. and other civic organizations in rehabilitation work. And he believes that crime prevention is best instituted in the proper treatment of juvenile delinquents. For the successfully rehabilitated child will not have to be prosecuted later as an adult criminal.

This policy looks toward economy. Economy in the administration of the office of the District Attorney, and economy in the lives of human beings. For a delinquent child turned toward decent living is a citizen saved for the community.

The Pine Cone Cymbal believes that Raymond Shellooe as district attorney would effectively undertake this neglected work for the county.

ture should attend to the problems for the home communities and for the state. He told of his own youth, of how he worked from boyhood, served in the last war, worked his way through college and night law school and was admitted to the bar. He finds among the people in the district chiefly an interest in pensions for old age, which he thinks should be granted without a checkup on the ability of near relatives to support them.

County speakers:

Mr. Brazil based his appeal for votes on his record as district attorney. He believes with two candidates, equally qualified, experience in the office should decide. The office of district attorney is more than criminal prosecution. It equally requires attention as to whether a crime actually has been committed.

Mr. Shellooe outlined the duties of the office as the civil end to prevent "legislation that is unconstitutional" and the criminal end in which he is not merely prosecutor. There is also re-habilitation and correction. There must be an intelligent approach to law enforcement and prevention of crime should begin with the first evidence in law infraction. A child's first offense should be looked into, the causes found, and wherever possible, eliminated. He cited the work of the Youth Correction Authority recently established in this state and its importance in checking juvenile delinquency. He cited his experience in the past as deputy district attorney.

Both candidates for Sheriff, Mr. Moreau and Sheriff Bordges offered their record as peace officers in the county as recommendation to the voters. Bordges for twenty years, a deputy sheriff, undersheriff and then sheriff. He promised to continue the office as he has in the past. Moreau for more than twenty years has been active in various police capacities, including highway patrol.

Mr. Joy described his recent activities in handling the work of the County Clerk's office in preparation for election. He has spent twenty-two years in the county clerk's office, twelve as county clerk, and feels that his experience makes him well qualified to continue to serve the county.

Mr. McMenamin pointed out he has lived many years in the county, has taken leadership and active interest in community affairs, and promises to "serve you and serve you well."

The two candidates for constable presented their records in office as their recommendation. Oyer was elected as constable in 1934 and has served eight years Mr. Freels has been deputy constable in Pacific Grove.

Matter of comment among the audience was that no personalities were indulged in by the speaker candidates, all the speakers giving their views objectively.

Mrs. Sandholdt, president of the League, conducted the meeting. At the close she presented Mrs. Voss, former state president of the League. The luncheon was served by the Monterey Red Cross Canteen.

Pleasant Job That Anyone Can Do for The Service Men

Soldiers are famished for reading matter, Mrs. Charles C. Shepard, state USO committeewoman, reports on returning from a meeting of the Northern California Women's Division of the USO in San Francisco—bringing a new project for local USO workers.

It is the making of books out of complete magazine serials for the soldiers to read on transports, in hospitals and at out of the way posts where there are no libraries.

Three thousand requests for such scrap books flooded San Francisco USO headquarters the day the new project was begun. Many letters have come from Australia.

Mrs. Shepard urges Carmelites to bring their magazines to the Carmel USO in the American Legion building, Dolores and Eighth.

Clipping committees are being formed, the members of which will go through the magazines, cut out and arrange the chapters of the serials. Pasting committees will work at home, making light weight scrap books which are complete novels.

Mrs. Shepard points out that this is war work in which everyone may take part and asks that all who wish to volunteer call her at Carmel 1260. An invalid is among those who have already offered to help.

Ukrainian Operetta Next at Playhouse

Unusual entertainment comes to the Playhouse screen, starting Saturday, in the Ukrainian folk operetta "Marusia." Booked for 3 days, this flim promises to delight all lovers of music and song.

"Marusia" is the name of a beautiful young peasant girl whose story is enriched with songs, dances, and colorful peasant costumes in the film version of an old village folk-tale, often seen on both the Russian and Ukrainian stage.

The New York Times says of it, "Persons more interested in the old folk-ways and music of the Ukraine than in the present (1938) political mess in Central Europe will enjoy "Marusia." And the N. Y. Daily News, "Exceptional pageantry and the beautiful choral arrangements make it an outstanding production. One of the highlights of the film depicts the Ukrainian custom of serenading at Christmas."

The music and singing are under the direction of the eminent Dr. Alexander Koshetz, and the development of the story is so direct that the clear English titles are hardly needed.

Carmel Enjoys Fine Dancing of The Cansinos

By BETTY HORST

The name Cansino is synonymous with good Spanish dancing, and last Friday night Carmel was privileged to see Jose Cansino and his small but excellent company in a very entertaining concert.

The program as a whole was well balanced and, although slightly on the popular side, was gay, colorful, and humorous. Jose Cansino knows all the tradition of Spanish dancing and so can afford to build a program which does not offend the classically minded and is still good entertainment for the layman.

In his own solos, especially El Desafio, his castanet playing and foot work were brilliant, and in his numbers with his new partner Carmen Morales his work was restrained and beautifully timed with hers. As in all dance partnerships, a complete blending is achieved only after innumerable performances.

Carmen Morales is beautiful and moves with much distinction and grace, but at times one wishes for more projection, or more temperament, or that certain something that puts a dance over. Also her costumes were not always well chosen or well tailored.

In Lolita, Cansino has an excellent balance to his program. She not only has a fine technique but personality plus and is an extremely good pantomimist. Her La Garternana and La Corrida were particularly well received. Her costumes were splendid.

In her two groups of songs Blanca Escalante proved herself a real trouper. Personality, grace, projection, and showmanship combined with a pleasing voice delighted the audience. Perhaps a bit on the popular side, but good entertainment.

Especially interesting was the splendid accompaniment of Francisco Avellan. He is not only a very sympathetic accompanist but an excellent pianist. His own composition, Gypsy Shadows, was particularly interesting and left one with a desire to hear the whole suite.

Although there was a slight tendency toward repetition in some of the dances, as is nearly always true when a choreographer works within a given medium, Jose Cansino has a very entertaining program.

CABBAGES AND THINGS

By PLANTSMITH

Arriving home after a rather strenuous weekend visiting friends and attending the wedding of a best friend I find myself utterly devoid of ideas for the weekly column. I'm in the fix of a comic strip writer who sometimes, all too obviously, has to produce "something out of nothing." Mrs. Plantsmith suggests that I give you some pointers on fall planting of perennials. I may do this next week—and I may not. Seasonal planting suggestions may be had for the clipping in any good garden magazine or Sunday supplement. For today I think I shall accent the "things" part of the heading and venture—not without some trepidation—into the realm of "Garden Philosophy."

For the sake of a beginning I'll pose thusly: is gardening a gainful occupation or a diverting hobby? Answering as a Californian-by-adoption I'm quite apt to choose the latter definition; surely gardening, for the urban dweller, has emerged from the occupational stage into a major State-wide hobby. And under the influence of our west coast climate (and who dares to say it isn't the best in the world?) one just HAS to garden. This is observable in shack towns and trailer camps as well as along the "Seventeen Mile Drives" of the State.

This observation impells me to add a third point: gardening is a prime necessity in these days of stress and strain — and deserves a 1-A-1 priority, in the language of the WPB.

All about us we see and hear about the forces of destruction at work. Not only is there great physical and material devastation but faith in one's fellowman and in the ultimate scheme of things is being badly shaken. As a restorer for body, mind and spirit, the best prescription I have found is to get as close as possible to God's Good Earth and share in the business of creating things as a counterbalance for the havoc that is being wrought. It's more than a "spring tonic"; it's an all-year-'round, soul-satisfying venture. You have a sense of oneness with the Creator of all good and perfect things.

Ah! but you say "I haven't the knack of growing things—the 'green hand'." That may be true and your initial efforts may not be much of a success. Never were truer words spoken than the old cliche "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Just try that added touch of care and attention; you may be surprised how that puny, scrawny little wisp of a slip responds. That's the secret. Friends—and even family—may fail you at times, but, given the right treatment, your garden will never let you down.

Pests and blights? Sure, plenty of them to discourage you. But you can't exactly blame the garden for them. The whole face of the earth is beset right now by human pests and blights but surely that's not God's fault, either. I can't believe He is discouraged even now in this hour of darkest outlook. Pippa, in Robert Browning's epic said ". . . . God's in His Heaven — all's right with the world." Stirring words; but somehow I never get the full impact of their meaning until I'm wrist-deep in freshly spaded earth—and a packet of seed within easy reach.

Now my apologies for taking a journey down a newly-blazed garden trail. I'm going out in the garden and dig up something for next week. It may be a mole or it may be a leaky BP (before priorities) hose. But I promise it won't be another thoughts-that-don't-often-leak-out piece like this one.

POETRY

COMBAT

Dark death will have me long before my song
Is finished; long before my eyes have seen
Enough of Beauty they will be as dark
As the night is—Oh, this windy place:
This precipice of Time that lets no wing
Unfold, unless the body be dashed down,
The beak broken; and no cry save Pain's
Come from the throat!—Too soon, I say will death
Feather by feather pluck the wing away.
I, who have talons, fight him to the end,
And will not be resigned—Although his breath
Turn me to ash, I'll burn him as I die!

—WILLIS EBERMAN.

SMALL STREAM IN AUGUST

This slight tumult of water
Grown to the color of night
When the day comes thin from the west
With a pale finger of light.

GREY GEESE

Months of cruising strengthens
His powerful wing-span
Till now he leads the grey wedge
In Southward caravan.

Across the sky the old drake
Honks the farewell flight,
And sounds of myriad wing-beats
Vanish in the night.

Down the vast dark spaces,
Along uncharted ways
They come at last to homelands
And the calm of harbored days.

—GRACE SAYRE.

TOWER HILL

Up from the town, along a woodland trail,
Thorugh early morning we pursued the dark
Across the hills; the east was growing pale,
The mists were clearing, and we heard a lark
Somewhere above us, and we stopped to listen.
Far down below us we saw chimney smoke
And kitchen lights, and the sudden glisten
Of sunshine on the lakes, and neither spoke.

We had no words to say, one to the other,
So we climbed higher. The lone summit stood
In cloud, like a rock islanded in smother
Of surf; and in that summit-solitude
We sat like castaways and closed our eyes,
Patiently waiting for the tide to rise.

REVIEWS

OF MEN AND BEASTS

By PHIL NESBITT

This week of the twenty first of August finds me singularly bereft of vital and factual thoughts. Thus far, in the course of the past week, no animal loving citizens have come to me with possible tales to be utilized in this column.

Senator Taft is justly eloquent on the score of the smear campaign being levied against the forthright Chicago Tribune. The gist of the defense being that Americans—and they are that —can still criticize error and fault in the administrative heads of the land. This simple little thing is the key note of our Democracy.

I always am greatly pleased when I discover, among Carmel's inhabitants, individuals who think and feel and understand this life with clarity and repose. I tell you they are not frequent. To look at life with a broad and comprehending lack of prejudice or bigotry is the privilege of very few. Among these few is the still commanding figure of John Catlin. John's life has consisted of a vital admixture of law, adventure and creative effort. At the present time, his creative instincts (he's a genuine artist) are taking the form of small sandstone heads of Gothic appearing men with beards. They are examples of superb and human sculpture. They aren't modern and mathematical. They are, however, subtle and true to the idea which extends through John's own mind. They are pioneer types . . . They emerge from out John's memory and early background spent among the settlers of the San Francisco of a half dozen decades ago.

Dave Davis, one of Carmel's soldiers, and a good lad indeed, writes from the north. Declares Dave "I've always wanted to see the Northwest. I never dreamed I would see it this way. It is green, with plenty of water in the streams." Remember Dave and his boar hunting? How he went forth at all hours with gun to 'get him' a boar? How he finally DID get a monster, high in the Santa Lucia Mountains?

Kip tells me that some day he's going to rip off the peeling walls of his establishment and have a continuation of the present animal murals carried out around the entire wall space. This would be fine. He could include the whole animal kingdom. It (Kips) would be talked about from one end of the peninsula to the other. No man would have a store with such a wealth of diverting whimsy running around the walls. Every grocery store has shelves laden with mundane foodstuffs, but few have artfully executed murals.

TO JOHN JORDAN

By HERBERT HERON

The 1942 production of Twelfth Night is dedicated to John B. Jordan, under whose hospitable roof at Pine Inn the first performance of this streamlined version was given, and who at that time played the part of Sir Andrew Aguecheek. This was in 1923—on January 6, the old English holiday of "Twelfth Night" and one of their chief times of conviviality.

For many years owner and manager of the famous hostelry on Ocean Avenue, Mayor of Carmel in 1928-30, long a member of the Board of Governors of the Forest Theatre, active in many of its productions, and best of all a faithful lover and ardent supporter of Shakespeare—

John Jordan, we salute you!

"Does not our life consist of the four elements?"

"Faith, so they say; but I think it rather consists of eating and drinking!"

It's Simply Awful The Goin's on at That There Show

By Our Adaline
(Pinch Hitting for Marion Howes)

The rafters of the First Theatre trrrr-embled Saturday night when the Troopers of the Gold Coast presented Big-Hearted Jim, a "melerdramer" of the Wild West.

Roland Sheffler as Jim Saxon, or the Sheriff of Medicine Lodge, was cast to perfection, his shyness or maybe just the way he won her heart, won us.

"Her" heart, of course, was that of the heroine, lovely Jean Humphrey, as Dora Carlyle, the young school teacher and—shhhh—the unwed mother. John Heulette (Bob McMenamin) the brute, was not only responsible for this deplorable state of affairs, but he also dern near choked the poor gal to death. And who came to her rescue? The hero? Not at all—this is a Different melodrama—! Liddy (Esther Gay) the Montana Diamond, saved the true-hearted little teacher, and school will open on August 31 as scheduled—too bad, Kids.

Into this jack-pot of excitement, Darwin Law, Paul Clemmensen, Gail Johnson, Jim Jensen, Marie Sheffler tossed in their folding-money's worth of talent to produce one of the rip-tearin'est shows the Gold Coast Troopers have put on in some time.

The olio clicked as usual. Bob McMenamin M.C.'d. Louise Doud and Jean Humphrey did their stuff. The Singing School brought out many voices that have been unheard of for years. Bill France and his skates had a hardy hand and he worked hard for it. If there is any doubt, try skating on just two rollers yourself.

Mr. Gallagher and Mrs. Shean (Bob McMenamin and Douglas Hume) were better and better. The patriotic ending was the most enjoyed I have yet seen.

Good show.

Churches . . .

At the Church of the Wayfarer next Sunday morning, Dr. James E. Crowther, Pastor, will continue the series on the Lord's Prayer. The theme will be, "The Kingdom of God." Is it a utopian dream for a future world? Or is it a reality in the present world of chaos and of conflict? Visitors are cordially invited. The service is at eleven. Ellen Rosell, guest organist, will play the following selections: "Intermezzo"—Rhemberger; "Reverie,"—Flagler; Postlude—Stern.

Next Sunday: 8 a.m. the Service of the Holy Communion. At 11 a.m. the Service of Morning Prayer with Sermon message by the Rector, the Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. Offertory solo: "God so Loved the World," McDermid. Offertory soloist: Arch Leonard. Organ numbers will include, "Stobat Mater," Kreckel; chorale "Plead Thou My Cause, O Lord"; and "Send Out Thy Spirit," Schuetky.

At 4 p.m. summer organ recital. All Saints' Church welcomes the visitor to Carmel, especially the Service men and their families. You will feel at home in this House of Prayer for All People, where we stand to sing God's praise as we stand when we sing our National Anthem expressing our love and praise of our Country, sit down to listen and kneel in prayer, showing in comfort in the posture of our physical being the attitude of our soul, as we do for instance, likewise in saluting our flag, thereby expressing our heart's feeling towards it and all it stands for.

"God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." These words from II Timothy comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, August 23, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Mind."

Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits . . . If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men," (Rom. 12: 16, 18).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established," (p. 467).

Democrats Urge Support of Earl Warren

'Olson Must Go,' Says Democratic Leader; Democrats Head Warren Committees

Signalling the mounting volume of rank and file Democrats switching away from Olson leadership, Democratic Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney, well known Musicians Union Leader in Los Angeles and legislative investigator of subversive activities, strongly opposes Governor Olson's reelection.

Tenney was one of the governor's staunchest supporters at the beginning of the Olson administration. This is what he now has to say:

"There can be no real Democracy within the Democratic party in California so long as its control rests with the present leadership. There is no room for independent thinking or wholesome opposition to the MACHINE.

"Olson has mistaken leadership for ownership. A change is absolutely necessary. Olson must go.

Tenney's position is endorsed it appears by thousands of Democrats in California. Significantly, Democratic leaders head more than half the County Committees active in the Warren campaign for Governor.

"Democrats," declares Jos. J. Rosborough, former Oakland Postmaster and Democratic leader, "should ponder well the words of Assemblyman Tenney, an outstanding leader in our own party.

"In this time of great national emergency, President Roosevelt has asked that petty partisanship be adjourned for greater responsibilities. California needs an administration pledged to that principle. Earl Warren, whose integrity has never been questioned, pledges such an administration. And Warren has never been known to break his word."

War Calls
Must Go Through

A cherished tradition among telephone men and women is that "the message must go through."

War messages for the sake and safety of all of us must go through first.

The demands of War are placing a load on our Long Distance lines often beyond their capacity.

It is impossible to build more switchboards and lines because materials such as copper must be used in making munitions and weapons.

You who use the telephone in these critical times can aid in getting War messages through promptly and in cutting down possible delays on your own essential calls if you will—

Be brief—Plan what you want to say.
Make calls only that you find essential.
Place your calls by number and use station-to-station service.
Answer your telephone promptly.

Your cooperation in these simple matters will make possible the maximum use of existing voice highways. Thank you for your help.

Varda and Lial "Do" Another Notable Window

War shortages may stop some people, but Varda, Big Sur and Monterey artist, continues with his work unabashed by lack of essential materials—in his case, mirrors.

The bits of mirror which he combined so effectively with feathers and cloth in dressing Phoebe, Margaret Lial's fabulous window manequin, for the Carmel Lial Shop window exhibit, are noticeably absent in his new window job for Miss Lial in her Monterey shop.

Phoebe also is absent from the scene.

This time Varda has used driftwood to create his figures, clothed them in feathers and cloth and tin (instead of mirrors). A night on a fee-rocious horse rides high-wide-and-handsome in one window, a fisherman capturing old records in his net dominates the other. The theme is: contribute old records so new ones can be made.

Red Cross

By S. L. C.

The great importance of the Canteen and Canteen Aide Courses stressed in a recent bulletin received by the Carmel Red Cross from Mrs. Dwight Davis, Director of Volunteer Special Services, Washington, D. C. She writes, "Because we are in a total war, it is of the utmost importance that every chapter have a well organized Canteen Corps, for no one knows when or where disaster may strike."

Colonel G. W. Stuart, Chairman of Disaster and Preparedness, is planning to establish two definite service centers in Carmel, and he has requested that the Canteen Corps have two groups to man these centers, adequately trained and equipped to handle any emergency.

Mrs. George Burton, Chairman of Canteen, and Mrs. J. L. Hughes, Vice-chairman, have at present one well trained group of Canteen workers and one group of Canteen Aides, but it is urgent that all women interested in this important work enroll immediately for the new classes which are to start in early September. Any questions will be answered at the Red Cross Headquarters, and registration may be made there or at the Post Office.

Within the next two weeks the Carmel Red Cross would like to start a new class in Home Nursing.

The purpose of this course is to strengthen the resourcefulness of the individual in dealing with minor illness or emergencies in the home and to develop in the individual health consciousness that will permit better care of the home and family under normal conditions as well as in illness or emergency.

The Red Cross requests that those interested register as soon as possible. Registrations are taken Tuesdays and Fridays at the Post Office, and from Monday to Saturday, 10:00 to 4:30 at Red Cross Headquarters on Dolores Street.

Miss Sears Donates Drama Collection to Stanford Library

Miss Millicent Sears of Carmel recently presented the Stanford University Library with a collection of theater programs, press clippings, and brochures about the American theater from 1832 to the present day.

The gift includes the collection of William Trotter who, born in California, spent most of his life in New York.

Typical of the items is a program, dated 1832, from the New Theatre, Richmond Hill, N. Y., where "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was playing.

"Persons wishing to visit this Theatre," it reads, "are respectfully informed that each ticket purchased at the undernamed places, will entitle its holder to a gratuitous conveyance to the Theater in the Greenwich Stages."

Dr. Hubert C. Heffner, head of the Stanford drama department, states that one of the important values of this collection is its use in tracing the production of plays in theater history.

Desa Burr Weds

Mr. and Mrs. Elton E. Admire (Dessa Burr) have taken a home at 230 Bentley street, Pacific Grove.

THEY FEED THE FURNACES of WAR

Natural Gas Workers Fight, too, for Victory

WHEN PEARL HARBOR plunged the United States into war, this utility company was prepared. No mobilization orders were necessary.

Our men, already working at full capacity, were ready. And among these non-military forces, trained by years of experience, one mighty important division is composed of the Gas Workers. They are men from many skilled crafts—engineers, chemists, gas technicians, compressor operators, pipe fitters and layers, trench machine drivers.

Their job is a big one. They must maintain a system of thousands of miles of transmission and distribution pipe lines, through which natural gas from the oil and gas fields of Central and Northern California is carried. They must deliver a constant flow of gas to the war plants in this extensive territory—to the steel furnaces, the shipyards, the cement plants, the shops and factories where production requires efficient heat.

Millions of cubic feet also must be supplied for the making of metallic magnesium. At the same time, the Gas Workers must maintain service to the cooking ranges and the heaters of 600,000 homes and supply the other fuel needs of some 3,000,000 people.

They are doing all this, laboring day and night, worthily carrying their share of the fight for Victory.

10 Ton Xmas Package for Fire Crew

nothing is too good for its fire fighting crew.

Chief Torres describes the new engine as a Mack, Model 80, a triple combination pumper which means that it is a ladder truck, pumping unit and hose truck in one. It carries 1600 feet of 2½ inch hose, 500 feet of 1½ inch hose and 300 feet of 1 inch booster line. It has a 300 gallon booster tank, has four speeds forward and can make between 70 and 80 miles an hour.

And it is ALL red. No nickel except possibly the bell.

"It's the war," Torres said when the Pine Cone suggested that that was a little too bad, "And anyway, the boys won't have so much to polish."

Someone will probably have to go east to drive it back to Carmel when the time comes for delivery, Torres said. Since it takes up an entire flat-car, the cost of bringing it by rail would be about $500.

"And maybe we'll have to take our gasoline back with us to get it out here because of the rationing in the east."

The final arrangements about delivery are in the hands of the city council. Whatever they decide, the earliest Carmel can hope to get its new pumper will be in December.

The Pine Cone suggests that it be appropriately packaged in tissue paper, red ribbon and holly. The town can't have a lighted Christmas tree this year because of the dim-out, so what the heck —why not decorate the fire engine?

In the Carmel Area this means all windows facing West, Northwest and Southwest, as there are very few houses from which it is impossible to see the water. Venetian blinds, closed tightly with blades pointed down, heavy curtains, or shades are adequate. Dimout does not mean a complete black-out, and these Dim-Out Regulations do not supersede any instructions pertaining upon the sounding of one long wailing blast of the Fire Siren.

All lights pointing upward are prohibited.

Skylights must be covered with curtains or drapes from the inside. A temporary covering of bags or heavy material weighted down, can be used only until permanent arrangements can be made.

Flashlights are permitted only if shielded with a layer of paper between the globe and the lens.

All lighting designed to attract attention is prohibited. Lighting designed for the sake of safety is allowed in porches, driveways, parking areas, etc., only if the light is shielded from the sea, and from above, and if the maximum amount of light reflected from the ground does not exceed 1 foot candle power. A good example of this lighting is Lobos Lodge on Ocean Avenue. Mr. Haley of the Pacific Gas and Electric company is the official light engineer, and will check with a light meter any place where there is a question. Appointments must be made through the Civilian Defense office for Mr. Haley.

Store windows should be checked by Mr. Haley to be sure that they are O.K. There is a special committee working on this problem.

No fires are allowed on the beach, or in incinerators at night. Fireplaces are O.K.

Motor Vehicles

Maximum amount of light for cars driving in Carmel proper, Carmel Woods, Carmel Point, Hatton Fields, Mesa, Mission and Walker tracts on all streets and roads is 250 beam candle power for each light. This is slightly more than ordinary parking lights. The official headlight testing station is the Monterey Garage on Alvarado street in Monterey, and persons wishing to have their lights tested may be referred to them.

Water Pipes and Gas Masks Head Police Problems

It isn't official until the Carmel Police department says so.

This week the pipe line in the canyon south of Mt. View and Forest Road sprang a leak. Water spouted into the air. Anybody would assume it was a job for the water repair crew. However, the matter was reported to the police department. A member of that body went to the scene, looked over the situation, decided that yes, there was a leak alright and notified the water company.

Aside from announcing officially leaks are leaks, the police generally put in considerable time looking for lost and stolen articles, and an odd and assorted list it has been throughout the years the department has been in existence, but this week produced a new one. For the first time in the history of the department, police were notified of the theft of a gas mask, that of Joe McEldowney.

contribute much to the scenes in which she appears as Maria.

Warren Keith Thomas, lately Cassius in the first play of the Festival, changes over to the Fool, witty, gay and nimble, singing his plaintive songs in contrast to the drunken revelry of the stout Sir Toby Belch, Michael Abbott, the Metellus Cimber in Caesar. The week idiocy of Sir Andrew Aguecheek is given a delicious finish by Robert Anderson, who, less than two weeks ago was coldly plotting the murder of Dr. Williams.

Fabian's boisterous delight in the trapping of Malvolio is enacted by Lou Ray Montgomery, who, like Maxine Chevalier, comes from the Pasadena Playhouse. He is on furlough from the Army.

Herbert Heron now adds Malvolio to his list of characters in Shakespearean comedy. In the past he has played Mercutio, Feste, Gratiano, Falstaff, Touchstone and many others.

The characters of the interludes will be played by Erik Short and John Van Houten.

The costumes for this production have been made by Helena Heron and Iva Rogers, whose work on the tunics and togas, robes and gowns of Julius Caesar gave much to the beauty of that production.

To Californians whose deepest interest lies in their own children, their own homes—the family that occupies the Governor's House at Sacramento is important.

Here is the family of the man that hundreds of thousands of Californians want at the helm of State government during the war crisis and in the troublous post-war days to come. They are: first row—Robert and Nina; second row—Virginia, Dorothy, Earl, Jr.; third row—James, Mrs. Warren and Earl Warren.
